H., On Sabbath Afternoon, March 5, 1848 It is the office of the pulpit to discourse not only upon the abstract truths of Christianity, but upon their application to the lives of men. It is to interpret the whole of human life by the wisdom which is from above. It is to justify the ways of Providence to man, and persuade him to bow to them with a filial trust. And oftentimes by illustrations drawn from history and biography, it may be possible to unfold and enforce the duties of the disciples of Christ in a more effectual manner than by any amount of general reasoning and exhortation. The Catholic Church has its calendar of saints, and a special day set apart to commemorate with religious services their virtues. If we forbear, out of respect to a higher than any human tribunal, to canonize any man, living or dead, we are not therefore debarred from dwelling in the solemn meditations of the sanctuary upon the great and the good.
